YOUR INSTRUCTOR Roy Hoxla, D.D.S. began his orthodontic training in 1985 under the direction of the late Dr. Charles Yates, utilizing the Begg method of orthodontic treatment. He served as a teaching assistant to Dr. Yates in 1989. He began using the Differential Straight-Arch® Technique when it was introduced in 1987. Dr. Hoxla is a member of the American Orthodontic Society and past president of the Academy of Gp Orthodontics. He has actively served on the Academy's Board of Directors and is currently serving on the Advisory Board. In September 1994 Dr. Hoxla was acknowledged for his outstanding achievements as clinician and was the first recipient of the Academy's Charles D. Yates Distinguished Service Award.

Dr. Hoxla has also developed courses for dental auxiliaries interested in expanding their knowledge of orthodontics and its incorporation into the general practice.

Dr. Hoxla teaches the hands-on courses in McHenry, Illinois and Toronto, Canada. Dr. Hoxla graduated from Loyola University School of Dentistry in 1976, where he was a member of the teaching faculty. He also served as a clinical supervising dentist at Harper College dental programs in Palatine, Illinois and was instructor for Head and Neck Anatomy in the dental hygiene program. Dr. Hoxla resides in Fountain Hills, Arizona where he is currently a Comprehensive Care Unit Clinical Director at the Arizona School of Dentistry and Oral Health in Mesa. He is an alumnus of the L.D. Pankey Institute for Advanced Dental Education, a member of the American Dental Association and component dental societies.

The American Dental Education Association (ADEA), the organization responsible for all dental education in this country, recently honored Dr. Hoxla. He was one of only 22 educators selected nationwide to participate in the ADEA Leadership Institute. Dr. Hoxla will have the opportunity to interact with the leaders of dental education in the United States. The Academy of GP Orthodontics is proud to have Dr. Hoxla as one of our 12-session hands-on course instructors. The training he will receive at the Institute will assist him in continuing to be one of the leaders in dental education.
